Commentary

In March 2025, the CAL Benefit Unit Trust delivered a return of 4.34% to push the YTD return to 6.75%, driven by falling interest rates which in turn, spurred a rise in Treasury bill prices on the secondary market. Looking ahead, the strategy will centre on securing prevailing yields by investing in high-quality Corporate Debt anticipating a further decline in yields in 2025. The portfolio will also maintain strong liquidity through investments in treasury bills and bank securities, while seeking offshore sovereign and duration exposure to mitigate currency risk. Our objective is to further diversify the portfolio and optimize returns, positioning the Trust for sustained long-term competitive performance.
